MR. OLIVER CABANA, JR.

A GLIMPSE OF PINE GROVE AT THE FARM ENTRANCE.

PINE GROVE FARMS in their entirety but typify the sterling integrity, business acumen and high ideals of the owner, Mr. Oliver Cabana, Jr., known to the people of Western New York as one of Buffalo's best known and successful business men. That this reputation is well deserved, is evidenced by the multiplicity of his business interests and the success which each has attained through his management. Hence, if we but have an accurate mind-picture of the man, we may have a fairly good idea of what to expect when we visit the splendid breeding establishment which Mr. Cabana has founded at Elma, N. Y., ten miles out from the City of Buffalo.

Six hundred acres of as choice land as may be found in the whole County of Erie, is devoted to the maintenance of the magnificent herd of Registered Holstein Cattle which has—with much care—been here assembled.

One of the first impressions that comes to the visitor, aside from the quality of the members of the Pine Grove Herd, is the system that prevails in every department. Everywhere there is an atmosphere of quiet determination, together with earnest activity and a well defined purpose. Things move smoothly, like a well-lubricated piece of mechanism, and as a logical result, success in the making of Certified Milk, large A. R. O. records and the production of ideal specimens of the Holstein Breed is being spelled in capital letters.

It is little more than two years ago, that the first purchases of Holsteins were made, and among these was a 27-lb. 3-year-old daughter of Hengerveld DeKol. Soon thereafter, the owner of Pine Grove Farm, being a man of broad vision, began scanning the Holstein horizon for something that should be in keeping with his aspirations as a breeder of Black and Whites. After visiting many of the largest Holstein Breeding Establishments in the United States, and carefully studying producing blood lines, as shown by the official records published in the Blue Book, Mr. Cabana in January of this year, astonished the Holstein World by purchasing at the E. H. Dollar Sale, at Syracuse, seventeen head, for which he paid the sum of $59,055. This purchase included the great Rag Apple Korndyke 8th for which Mr. Cabana paid $25,000; being the largest record price ever paid for a Holstein Sire at public auction. With this royally bred grandson of Pontiac Korndyke, there came to the Pine Grove Farm from the Dollar dispersal, Pontiac Pet (the first cow in the world to make 37 lbs. of Butter in 7 days), by Pontiac

In the brief mention that we have made of the various excellent sires that are represented within the covers of Holstein-Friesian Aristocracy we have endeavored to avoid the use of superlatives; yet, as we study the breeding of Rag Apple Korndyke 8th, it is but fair to ask, is not the characterization, "The Greatest Bull in the World", well deserved?

Prophesying is not our purpose, and yet we feel it would be safe to predict a most wonderful future for this grandly bred Holstein Sire.

With an equipment that is practical and devoid of all that makes for the spectacular, Pine Grove Farms have marked the opening of a new era in the breeding of Holstein Cattle in the Western end of the Empire State.

The quartet of females surrounding the circular reproduction of Rag Apple Korndyke 8th, to wit: Pontiac Pet, Diona Koningen Pietertje, Segis Fayne Johanna and Lady Concordia DeKol, carry A. R. O. records the average of which cannot be equaled by any other four cows on any one farm in America.

7 days, and several others that lack of space compels us to omit. Studying these records for a moment, it is clearly apparent the class of females that have been assembled at Pine Grove Farms from which to build the future of the great Rag Apple Korndyke 8th, the sire which Mr. Cabana characterizes as "The Greatest Bull in the World".

The first Herd Sire at the farm was that grandly bred son of King Segis Pontiac, namely, King Segis Pontiac Columbo, a three-fourths brother of the "$50,000 bull", and having for his second dam, that World's Record daughter of Hengerveld DeKol—Pontiac Columbo.

At the present time, there are more than fifty daughters of King Segis Pontiac Columbo in the Pine Grove Herd, all of which will be retained, bred to Rag Apple Korndyke 8th, and developed.

Conceding, as we must, that Pontiac Korndyke was the greatest bull that ever lived, there can be no denying the wonderful ancestry of Rag Apple Korndyke 8th, when we consider that he carries conscientious business manager of the farm, is a walking exemplar of the word "efficiency". He and Mr. M. L. Allen, superintendent, constitute a working organization that spells success every time it moves. The aspirations of Mr. Cabana as regards the future of his magnificent herd of Registered Holstein Cattle, are as high and lofty as are the giant pine trees that guard the portals to Pine Grove Farm.

More than a ton of Certified Milk is shipped daily to the City of Buffalo, and the blood of the Pine Grove Sires, through their sons and daughters, is being sold to all parts of the country, where they in turn must in the course of events add a further lustre to the record that is sure to be made at this great breeding establishment.

Visitors are ever welcome, and no more instructive object lesson can be imagined than that which follows a day spent at Pine Grove Farm and in the atmosphere of enthusiasm which surrounds Mr. Oliver Cabana, its owner.
